

And so I Try

by

Dr. Mohammad Akram

Language Instructor

Jazan University, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia

And so I try to fly with boundless clouds holding exquisitely beautiful hands

I desire to become a bird
which may visit easily
to your chambers
And
could tell me
the scars
on your body

I in calculate
I were an expert surgeon who could make the surgery of them

I imagine
the grayish hair
in your ebony cliff
that make it's beauty
a little less
I desire to cure it

I go
beyond the nights
where me
with your solitariness celebrate
and kiss you
for a while

I feel you
in my styles and ways
and
feel fragrant
without flowers

I'm sympathized

when I deal with any lady

and make the tangled bridge of your beauty

Our embraces!

I ever calculated

them

the last and final

I recall

the things occurred in love

fate and chance

All merged

into meditation.